About Multi-locational use

Many small businesses now take full advantage of the Internet and telecommunication up to a point, but when they need to combine data management and office processes they see costs increase dramatically. With iDirres we look after the difficult part of the integration. All you require is a connection to the Internet and iDirres does the rest.

Key benefits to your business:

- Does not require expensive servers
- Simply requires a Broadband connection to the Internet
- Allows for a better work/life balance, with home workers linked with their office
